| Petition summary and background: | The world population, now over 7.9 billion, is growing by almost 81 million people per year. This rapid population growth makes it increasingly difficult for us to protect the human environment and provide enough food, clean water, shelter, and resources for everyone. Environmental and population education programs which teach students about these critical issues are an important component to school curricula. |
| Action petitioned for:           | We, the undersigned, urge our principal, teachers, and local school board to include environmental and population education in our school curriculum.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
